

Registration is now open!

Necessary Elements in the Fundamentals of Human Research

This course provides an introduction to the conduct of human research.

Course Outline

Session 1: An Introduction to Human Research

TOPICS: The Clinical Research Coordinator; An Overview of Research at Washington University; Necessary Elements for Social/Behavioral Research; Conflicts of Interest; Research Integrity; Protocols, Case Report Forms, and Study Phases; Case Studies in Compliance

Session 2: Good Clinical Practice

TOPICS: An Introduction to the IRB; Documentation in Clinical Research; Writing a Protocol; Device Billing and the Billing Matrix; Study Budgets; Recruitment, Informed Consent, and Retention

Session 3: Institutional and Investigator Responsibilities

TOPICS: Assessing Research Risk; HIPAA Privacy and Security; Audits

Session 1: Wednesday, March 15th

8:00am-4:00pm

Session 2: Wednesday, March 22nd

8:15am-4:00pm

Session 3: Wednesday, March 29th

8:15am-Noon

Held in the @4240 Building, First Floor, OTM Conference Room

(Take the Red shuttle from the Medical Campus.)

Cost of Course: $125

Includes textbooks and other materials distributed throughout course

Registration is required.

How to register:

Registration deadline is Thursday, March 9th. Seating is limited and usually fills much earlier than the registration deadline.

If you have never completed Necessary Elements and would like to register:

Step 1) Click this Necessary Elements link to Learn@Work, and enter your WUSTL key if prompted.

Step 2) Click the "Register" button on the top grey bar (between the stars and Bookmark). DO NOT click "View classes."

Step 3) You will now see the final registration page. Click the "Complete Registration" button. DO NOT uncheck any of the sessions' boxes, as all three days are part of the program.

If you have previously completed Necessary Elements or are non-Wash U, please contact S.George@wustl.edu to register.